Bailey ~~XXXXXX~~ is A lot of the ceiling tile footage is not related to the construction in the way that is being implied. If you take a look it's the old ceiling tiles that are rotting and several of them have been since before construction ever really began because the ... See More

Toby MacDonald The students reported this leakage to the principal and nothing happened. This leak lasted for about 1 week with a garbage can under it until the tile collapsed. This video was during the construction time and is to show what the child have to go through.

Savannah ~~XXXXXX~~: Toby MacDonald things like that have been happening for years black mold seeping through tiles, leaks ect when brought up to school officials you would be told to "suck it up and stop being dramatic" everything that's going on now is not surprising a big majority of the school officials (not all by any means) do not care as long as they can get through the next class.

Josie [redacted] It was during first semester I'm pretty sure, if not then it was second semester during renovations. Plus it was because the water was leaking through and I pokes the time while it was damp and it broke lmao not from Reno's ***

Josie [redacted] Right!! Like damn, go get your education and just stfu. Just because you're lazy [redacted] doesn't wanna wake up in the morning and go to school doesn't mean you have to use the renovations as an excuse

Isabelle [redacted] Right like so many people haven't had any issues. And everyone who does have issues are only bringing them up a year after the renovations have started

Samantha [redacted] Regardless should you have to go to school in this environment? It's way more than health issues involved. Also construction started march 2017. Also they did roof construction happened in 2016. Vibrations from equipment can cause cracking of pipes and who know what else. Read through how many construction workers have said they've done this for years and its so a safe place for kids.
